In 1943 IES purchased the Terre Haute Indiana Electrotype Company which was started in 1908. The plant was moved to Indianapolis in 1944, and to its present location in 1956.

Over the years, the electrotype industry has had drastic changes, like all other manufacturing plants.

The original electrotyping was done by making an impression, either by pressure or hand carving, a cavity into solid wax, dusting with lead graphite to make the wax conductive to copper plating. Today we use plastic for our molding, and spray with silver to make it conductive.

To make an electrotype we must have an original engraving, type metal or another electrotype from which to make our impression. This impression (in reverse) is sprayed with silver (as the conductor) plated with copper to approximately .010" thickness, the copper and plastic are separated, the copper plating is then cast on the back side with lead to about one-eighth inch thick to make the plate rigid. After hand work, the plate is then mounted on cherry wood to the standard .918" type-high.

An electrotype is a duplicate plate of a master. If you have a favorite engraving or electrotype we can make you a duplicate.

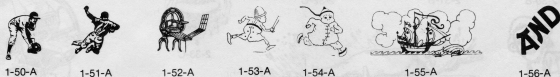

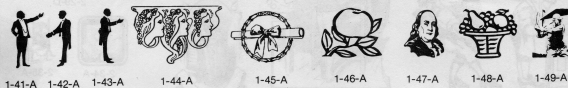

The quality of our electrotypes is guaranteed to be equal to that of printed catalog, some are very old and have been worn somewhat before we received them.

Some twenty-five years ago there were about 300 plants such as IES producing electrotype, today there are only about 10 still in production.

We trust this cut service will be useful for you.

See last page for ordering instructions.

We also have many other items (appx 10,000) that we chose not to put in the catalog. If you don't find what you need in the catalog, let us know what you need.
